SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

One of the most attractive teas of the season was given yesterday by Mrs. George L. Dickson. The stately rooms of her handsome home, on Jefferson avenue, were thronged with friends, who came to pay an affectionate tribute of respect to the hostess. The guest of honor was Miss Haight, of Lebanon.

A large plateau of pink roses formed the centerpiece of the table in the dining room. Music was by Bauer.

The members of the Bible class of the Sunday school of the Church of the Good Shepherd, were delightfully entertained on Saturday night last at the home of William Oglesby on Sanderson avenue.

Mrs. Rufus J. Foster will entertain at a reception this afternoon, when Mrs. Gardner Cobb, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Foster, of Buffalo, will be guests of honor.

Country club members enjoyed tobogganing at the Country club last night. There were refreshments and music, and a big wood fire to add to the delight of the occasion.

The change of base of the National Salt company has brought a large number of young men to this city, who are considered a very desirable acquisition to the social set.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jordan, of Richmond avenue, are visiting in New York.

Harry Snedman, of Academy street, has returned from a trip to Thosa, N. Y.

Rev. Frank J. Milman, of Pottsville, has returned home from a short visit here.

Mrs. C. Kresky and son, of North Sumner avenue, have returned home from Tunkhannock.

Miss Mae Lindbury, of South Main avenue, is home for a few days from Stroudsburg State Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hutton, of Jackson street, have gone to North Carolina for the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. William Beagle, of Fleetville, has returned home from a visit with her sister, Mrs. John Lamb, of Fairview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stradley and wife, of Wilkes-Barre, have returned home from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reid, of Jackson street.

Mrs. John Powell, of Upper Lehigh, has returned home from a visit with her mother, Mrs. E. H. Wainman, of South Rebecca avenue.

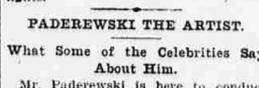

Mrs. A. O. Salisbury, who was called to this city by the death of her sister, Mrs. W. W. Brandon, left for her home in Thompson yesterday afternoon.

Miss Lila Stewart will leave today to begin preparations for a great kermess in Washington, D. C. Miss Stewart made many friends during her former visits to Scranton but she has simply captured the entire populace of this section and whenever we have another kermess she will be first in the thought of the people.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR.

John M. McCourt Takes His Place Among Lawyers of County.

John M. McCourt was yesterday admitted to practice in the courts of Lackawanna county, on motion of Colonel F. J. Fitzsimmons, his preceptor. He is one of the young men who took the recent law examinations and passed in a brilliant manner.

Mr. McCourt is a graduate of the High school and possesses a mind remarkably well stored and disciplined. It is a logical mind that quickly grasps and masters legal principles, and those who know him best are confident that a brilliant future awaits him at the bar.

Before taking up the study of law, Mr. McCourt devoted himself to newspaper work for several years. Great force and clearness, as well as an unusual power of description, mark the articles that come from his pen. His decision to devote his talents to the study of law was a natural one, for the world of one who would be one of its shining lights.

PADEREWSKI THE ARTIST.

What Some of the Celebrities Say About Him.

Mr. Paderewski is here to conduct his opera "Manru" and his critics will again resolve him into a sun myth and spin literary webs out of his yellow locks. His personal appearance has always fascinated them. Women have been content to listen to his playing and refresh their tired selves in the wondrous quietness of his art; but the male mind has "been caught in the meshes of his hair faster than gnats in a cobweb." Even Burne-Jones saw in Paderewski's clear cut profile an analogy to a comet with its fiery tress, and Alna Rodona held a web of angelic forms behind his wavy locks. The ecstasy of the artist's European admirers even touches the borders of the comic. Take for instance the following from the pen of a distinguished French critic:

"His winged reputation; the beautiful countenance of a fallen angel whose mysterious fire the pencil of Burne-Jones knew how to seize; his Masaccio hair, framing in artistic disorder the face of Lucifer, whose aureole has been changed into hair; his refined and subtle spirit; the rare grace of his manner proclaim the elevation of his genius."

But Alfred Nossig, the librettist of "Manru," has gone even further. The name of a grand piano in German is flugel—a wing. Nossig has connected the open lid of this instrument with the pinions of the Babylonian seraph with six wings, as described in the Bible; "with train he covered his face, with twain he covered his feet, and with twain did he fly." And so he has come down to us in the sculptures of the winged Babylonian lion with a human face. "In the lines of Paderewski's head and in his figure," proceeds Nossig, "there is something which lends itself most happily to the complement of an open grand piano. When he plays he seems to grow into one with it. We even believe that we are gazing upon a winged seraph and listening to his mighty song."

The wildest admirer of Wagner's muse never achieved anything more grotesque than this.

Card of Thanks. W. W. Brandon and family extend their heartfelt thanks to their many friends, who were so kind and showed their sympathy by floral remembrances during their sad bereavement.

ANOTHER CASE OF SMALL-POX

VICTIM IS MRS. ADOLPH LENTZ OF PRICE STREET.

Some Time Ago She Visited the Parry's in the Mears Hall Building and It Is Thought Contracted the Disease There—Condition of the Other Victims—Petition of this People of Bromley Avenue to Reorder and Councils Asking for Better Sanitary Conditions.

The tenth victim of small-pox in West Scranton was reported yesterday to Dr. Paine, in the person of Mrs. Adolph Lentz, of 1039 Price street, wife of Ensign Lentz, of the Salvation army. She was taken ill several days ago, having visited the Parry home in the Mears' hall building before the place was quarantined.

The case has been under suspicion, and as soon as the rash developed was reported by the attending physician. The house has been placarded and quarantined, and an officer assigned to guard the premises. The names of all the people who have visited the house of late will be secured, and they will be guarded to prevent a possible spread of the disease. The Salvation army barracks on Price street has been closed and will be fumigated.

Mrs. Lentz was vaccinated on Thursday last, but the disease had taken hold of her before this. The brace and Parry children are reported out of danger, and will probably be all right again in about four weeks from now.

CONDITION OF SUFFERERS.

W. J. Morgan, of Swetland street, and Mrs. William Allsbaugh, of North Bromley avenue, are recovering, but the case of Mrs. James Brace, of North Garfield avenue, is quite serious. The condition of Councilman Evan Evans, of Roberts court, is developing, but as yet, cannot be determined fully as to the outcome.

The child of Alfred Rodney, of 107 North Seventh street, which was suspected as small-pox, has been investigated by Dr. Paine, who reports it as chicken-pox. Councilman Evans denies having visited the Brace house office, and says that was the night George Lewis died.

At that time he went there and received some messages from Mrs. Lewis, which he claims to have re-copied and sent out by telegraph to relatives and friends in different parts of the country. He also denies having helped to burn the clothing and bedclothing of the victims.

Dr. Paine, who is looking after the cases for the bureau of health, has been considerably annoyed by people who come in contact with him. He states positively that all the work in connection with the cases is performed after 10 o'clock at night, and before and after visiting his patients takes the following precautions:

In a special room in the Mears' hall building he changes his street clothing before doing anything else, and at the same time starts a strong formaldehyde machine at work fumigating them. This machine is constantly at work while he is making his visits.

DONS OLD CLOTHING. He then attires himself in another outfit of old clothing, places a rubber hood over his head, covering his hair completely. Over his clothes he wears a rubber coat, reaching down to his feet.

A strong solution of formaldehyde is then prepared, in which he bathes his face and hair. Then he dips his hands in a solution of bichloride of mercury, and is ready to visit his patients. On his return to the room he again dips his hands in the solution of bichloride of mercury, changes his clothing, thoroughly fumigates himself and retires from the building.

As soon as a new case is reported, the house is placarded, an officer is placed in charge, and treatment is commenced. Quarantine regulations are enforced, and no one is allowed to enter or leave the house.

The wants of the occupants are communicated to the officer in charge, and he in turn notifies Patrolman John Thomas, who procures the necessities. They are placed on the porch of the house, and the nurse in charge carries them into the house.

Residents in the vicinity of the small-pox victims have drawn up a petition, which is signed by twenty-eight of them, and will submit it to councils at the next meeting. It is as follows:

THE PETITION. Scranton, Pa., Jan. 22, 1902. To the Honorable Recorder, and the Select and Common Councils of Scranton, Pa. Gentlemen: The present sanitary condition of our immediate vicinity is in a most deplorable condition, so much so, that it is a menace to public health at all seasons of the year.

The block on Bromley avenue, between Swetland and Petebone streets (now being patrolled by an account of the recent small-pox cases there) is pregnant with foul stenches in mid-winter owing to faulty drainage.

Roberts' court, emptying into Petebone street, is in a similar condition.

Petebone street, from appearance, would be better known as Petebone ditch, with a basin below summer avenue especially adapted to receiving all the filth, and breeding the consequences that come within its reach.

There are families in the neighborhood who do not know what it is to be without the attention of a physician continually.

The residents of this neighborhood are highly indignant over the matter, and fearfully apprehensive of future consequences.

This more on the part of the undersigned is highly approved by physicians who have heretofore been connected with the board of health, and who will at any time consult with any member of the board, and testify to the locality in question being one of the "worst disease breeding places in the city of Scranton."

We, therefore, pray that the honorable bodies will take into consideration the foregoing, and relieve a long-suffering public.

son, Thomas W. FREE VACCINATION.

Director of Public Safety F. L. Wormser, Superintendent Allen, of the bureau of health, and Dr. John O'Malley, chairman of the school board's special committee on vaccination, conferred yesterday afternoon on the question of free vaccination.

When Mr. Chittenden's resolution providing for free vaccination and directing that it be done in certain rooms in the public schools of the city, was introduced in councils, Dr. O'Malley expressed himself as being opposed to the opening of the public schools for such purposes. At Chittenden's conference, however, he agreed to permit one room in one school in each ward to be opened on Saturdays, providing that these rooms shall be thoroughly fumigated after use.

CONVENTION OPENS TODAY

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ARE HERE IN FORCE.

Session Will Open This Morning in Club House and Will Continue All Day—Banquet to Be Served Tonight to Delegates and Local Members of Order—Third Degree Was Conferred Last Night Upon Fifty-nine Candidates in Presence of a Large Gathering of Knights.

The majority of the ninety-six delegates who will attend the state convention of the Knights of Columbus to be held today in the club house on North Washington avenue, arrived in this city yesterday and assisted in the conferring of the third degree last night.

With the Philadelphia delegates came an extra delegation of fifty members of the order acting as a sort of honorary escort for State Deputy James Flaherty, who arrived with them shortly after 6 o'clock last evening.

The club house was crowded last night when the ceremonies in connection with the conferring of the third degree were begun in the main auditorium by District Deputy Supreme Knight Gibbons, who was assisted by Matt Brown, of this city. The third degree was conferred upon thirty-nine candidates from Scranton, and upon twenty others from Wilkes-Barre, Pittston and other surrounding towns.

Following the conferring of the degree there was a social session. The delegates and visiting knights will attend St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at 9 o'clock, when a high mass will be solemnized by Rev. Thomas W. Cavanaugh, of Clearfield, state chaplain. Rev. D. J. Bustin, who is also a member of the order, will officiate at the service. Immediately following the service the convention will be opened in the club house and will continue in session all day with a brief intermission for luncheon.

Beginning at 8 o'clock tonight a banquet will be served in the assembly room to the delegates, visiting knights and members of the local council. Hon. M. E. McDonald will act as toastmaster, and toasts will be responded to by Rt. Rev. Bishop M. J. Hoban, Attorney T. P. Duggan, Attorney M. J. Donahoe, Hon. James O'Neill, of Carbondale; Daniel L. Hart, of Wilkes-Barre, and Judge Francis Connor, of Easton.

THE WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

It Is Celebrating Its First Birthday This Week.

The Woman's Exchange celebrates its first birthday this week. This excellent institution has done so much for women with their brains and fingers that the first anniversary should be commemorated by all who wish to encourage housewifely and dainty accomplishments.

The feature of this week is the Valentine display. There are also beautiful kimonos, decorative work in photography and charming embroideries. The rooms of the Exchange on the second floor of the Price building are very attractive just now.
